SERVICES

If you are a client of the Protection & Advocacy Project, P&A can:

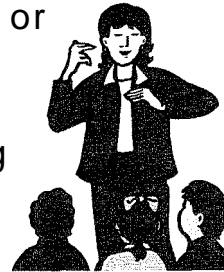

- give you information about your rights.
- advise you on how to solve problems & speak up for yourself.
- provide an advocate to represent you by doing things like writing letters, going to meetings, & talking to others over the phone.
- provide a lawyer to represent you in administrative or court hearings, including appeals.

The Protection & Advocacy Project works exclusively for the person with the disability. P&A's efforts focus on the expressed wishes of the client within his or her legal rights.

P&A WILL...

- choose the advocate, clerical help, lawyer, & other people who will work with you.
- provide the cultural or disability-related accommodations needed to help you work effectively with P&A. This can include things like a language interpreter, Braille or large print materials, & accessible meeting locations.
- respond to your complaints if you are unhappy with P&A's services and provide you with information on how to file a grievance.
- provide services to you at no cost, unless you specifically agree in a separate agreement to pay fees and expenses.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES

P&A works with many people and on many different issues affecting individuals with disabilities. P&A wants to do a good job for everyone. To help P&A be as effective as possible, you agree to:

- be at all appointments, hearings, and trials on time.
- work with P&A to help solve your problem.
- get all needed documents and other information to P&A.
- tell P&A immediately when you change your address or phone number.
- be accurate and truthful when you tell P&A things about your problem.
- follow through with activities that you agree to do.

You can stop services from P&A at any time just by telling P&A.
